

 BostonGlobe.com

boston.com

 Associated Press

NH hosting US Junior Amateur golf tournament

July 16, 2012

STRATHAM, N.H.—A New Hampshire high school golfer who was runner-up in last year's U.S. Junior Amateur is hoping for victory this time around.

Chelso Barrett, who will be a senior this fall at Keene High School is among the 156-player field at this year's U.S. Junior Amateur. It starts Monday in New Hampshire.

The event is being held at the Golf Club of New England in Stratham. This is the first time a United States Golf Association championship will be held in the state. The championship match is Saturday.

The Golf Club of New England is situated on 450 acres of farmland lined with oak trees, old stone walls and streams.■

http://www.boston.com/news/local/new_hampshire/articles/2012/07/16/nh_hosting_us_junior_amateur_golf_tournament/